

Summary

Hi! I'm Billy. I am an Art Director & Designer based in South London and yes, that is indeed my real name.

After graduating with a degree in Computer Game Arts I've found myself dabbling in all sorts of projects, from brand identity creation to illustrating naked nudey bodies or animating flying pizza slices into the mouth of a personified cloud.

I've had the pleasure of working with a variety of clients such as Adidas, Domino's, CALM and many more over the years. Occasionally I like to return to my roots as a game artist, tinkering with bits of code while trying to make a game or bringing to life the odd and quirky characters I like to doodle in my spare time.
